EDUCATION REVOLUTION 2010

Your Journey from Self Awareness to Successful Independence

April 17, 2010 @ AT&T Park, San Francisco

In keeping with PEN's mission to empower and bring academic success to students with learning and attention difficulties, this family-oriented event offers a wide range of information, education, support and community-building opportunities for students with learning and attention difficulties, their families and the educators and professionals who work with them.

This year's theme, Your Journey from Self-Awareness to Successful Independence, highlights the need for support spanning the journey from early intervention through school, college and career launch.

The day begins with two speakers renowned for their work in the field of learning and attention difficulties:

Edward M. Hallowell, M.D., Director of The Hallowell Center and author of Driven to Distraction and Delivered from Distraction, &

Jonathan Mooney, Co-Founder of Project Eye-to-Eye and author of Learning Outside the Lines and The Short Bus.

The day continues with a range of workshops, exhibit fair, technology demonstrations, fun activities and much, much more.
