

Parents Education Network

A coalition of parents collaborating with students, educators and the community to empower and bring academic success to students with learning and attention difficulties.

Speaker Series 2008-2009

THERE ARE NO IEPs IN COLLEGE

Presented By:

Paul Grossman

Civil Rights Attorney, Law School Professor, and Individual with Learning Disabilities

Paul Grossman, a successful civil rights attorney, law school professor, and individual with learning disabilities will share with PEN members his expertise on students with disabilities in college. He will share with us his own story of going from struggling high school student to ranking near the top of his law school class. Paul will share with us what research shows are the most important skills to develop in high school in order to succeed in college—hint: they have nothing to do with reading or writing.

Most important, Paul will highlight eight major differences between the rights and responsibilities of students with disabilities in high school and the rights and responsibilities of such students in college. Parents and children need to be aware of these differences before they arrive at college! There are no IEPs, no fair hearings, no RSP classes, no aids, and no manifestations procedures. Nonetheless, there are some accommodations not available in high school that may be available in college. How can you write a good transition plan or prepare your child for college without this critical information? You can't! But PEN and Paul can give you the answers.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 2008

8:30AM SIGN-IN & COFFEE, 9 – 11AM, SPEAKER EVENT

STAR ACADEMY

4470 Redwood Highway
San Rafael, CA 94903

$10 FOR PEN MEMBERS

$45 NON-MEMBERS (includes one-year membership to PEN)

SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE – E-MAIL PEN@PARENTSEUCATIONNETWORK.ORG

FREE FOR PEN MEMBER SCHOOL FACULTY

REGISTER ONLINE at:

ParentsEducationNetwork.org